Course Description

This course presents an overview of poverty analysis and how it is applied by multilateral organizations. Topics include measuring poverty, analyzing the characteristics of the poor, understanding the causes of poverty and assessing policies to reduce poverty. Using the World Bank's poverty assessments as a model, students will learn to prepare a basic poverty assessment for a developing country. Students will also learn basic poverty analysis techniques using the statistical software package Stata.

Pre-requisites: Intermediate Micro and Macroeconomics. No prior knowledge of Stata is required.

Objective and Learning Outcomes

The purpose of this course is to learn how to prepare an analytical synthesis of the existing body of knowledge on topics covered in a poverty assessment. In particular, by the end of the semester students should have learned:

- i. The basic analytics of poverty and inequality measures; the determinants of poverty; and, anti-poverty policies (including the incidence of benefits and taxes).
- ii. Main trends in the evolution of poverty and inequality in the world.
- iii. To prepare an assessment of the poverty situation in a particular country, including a poverty profile.
- iv. To prepare an assessment of the impact of anti-poverty policies in a particular country.
- v. To prepare their own estimations of poverty in a particular country as well as a basic poverty profile for that country, using the Stata software.

Program Outcomes

This course contributes to the program outcomes for the BA, BS and MA degrees in Economics by allowing students to demonstrate competency in specialized areas in economics (poverty and inequality analysis).

Organization

The course will be conducted as a seminar and there will be several in-class workshops and Stata tutorials. Students are expected to actively participate in class and interact with the instructor and each other. Careful and critical reading of the materials is a key component of this course. The class will consist of lectures and workshops, four Stata sessions and two in-class presentations.

Readings

Haughton, Jonathan and Shahidur R. Khandker. 2009. Handbook on Poverty and Inequality, World Bank. (available online)

Other reading materials will be posted in a shared Dropbox folder or they can be downloaded or obtained from the library.

Technology

You will need to look for data during class so please bring a laptop set up to use Tulane's network or use computers available in the classroom.

Evaluation and Grading

The evaluation is based on an exam (40 percent), in-class presentations and participation (30 percent), and the preparation of a Poverty Assessment (30 percent).

The exam is scheduled for Monday, April 20 and will be comprised of ten questions on the material and readings covered in the class.

For the Poverty Assessment assignment:

- a. The class will be divided in teams. Each team will work on a particular country chosen from the following list: Armenia, Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Ethiopia, Guatemala, Indonesia, Mexico, Peru, South Africa, Sri Lanka and Uruguay.
- b. Each team must prepare a spreadsheet with data on inequality and poverty for their country. Students will be shown how to search and compile the data during the in-class workshops.
- c. Each team must do two in-class power point presentations following the structure of a poverty assessment: evolution of poverty; poverty profile; determinants of poverty; and, anti-poverty policies. Every member of the team should present a particular section.

AND

For students taking the course at the undergraduate level:

- d. Each team must submit a revised version of the ppt and spreadsheet that incorporates the comments given by the instructor previously by 5pm on May 1.
- e. The ppt submitted at the end of the course will follow the structure of a typical Poverty Assessment and will have four parts: evolution of poverty; poverty profile; determinants of poverty; and, anti-poverty policies.
- f. The grade will be the same for all members of the team.
- g. If a team does not deliver the Poverty Assessment by the due date, the grade for this assignment will be reduced at a rate of 25 percent per day for all the members of the team. Students will be excused only for valid medical or family emergencies. Students must produce signed evidence by the proper authority verifying the reason why they missed the deadline.

For students taking the course at the graduate level or to fulfill the intensive writing requirement:

- a. In addition to the above, each student must prepare a Poverty Assessment.
- b. The final paper should have 10 pages maximum (in double space and font size 12) including the references, tables and figures.
- c. An annotated outline of the paper is due Monday, March 23. Note that the submission of an annotated outline is a prerequisite of the intensive writing practicum. Please submit electronically with a copy to Rodrigo Aranda.
- d. The revised version of the paper is due Friday, May 1. Please submit electronically with a copy to Rodrigo Aranda.
- e. If a student does not deliver the Poverty Assessment by the due date, the grade for this assignment will be reduced at a rate of 25 percent per day. Students will be excused only for valid medical or family emergencies. Students must produce signed evidence by the proper authority verifying the reason why they missed the deadline.

Note: Students taking the course to fulfill the intensive writing requirement must enroll in the writing practicum. If you have not enrolled, please contact Paul Watson at pwatson@tulane.edu; please copy the message to me nlustig@tulane.edu.

Attendance, punctuality and active participation in class are required. Students are allowed to miss only one class without excuse. If more than one class is missed (fully or partially), students will be excused only for valid medical or family emergencies. Students must produce signed evidence by the proper authority verifying the reason why they missed or were late to a class. Without the signed evidence, 5 percent will be subtracted from final grade for each missed class. If a student misses 4 classes or more, s/he will receive an incomplete for the course.

Students are not to use cell phones or the internet during class except as required by the course. The use of cell phones or computers for unauthorized purposes will result in a deduction of 5 percent from the final grade for each violation.

There will be a 10-minute break during each session. Students are expected to remain in the room during the entire class unless exceptional circumstances require them to be excused.

Academic honesty

All students must be familiar with and abide by Tulane's Code of Academic Conduct, which is available online at <http://tulane.edu/college/code.cfm>
